With countless titles regularly issued, the fever for this type of game seems far from over. Among the games that take over the mobile arena is Survival Squad. This is the last man's free shooting game, in which many players are pitted against each other until there is only one - or four left - if you choose to play in teams. Become the last man standingAll players start the match jumping off the plane. To increase your chances of survival, you need to start running and collecting weapons the moment they hit the ground. But don't worry. There's a lot of weapons lying around, so you can get armed before the enemy starts. However, the conflict in the game does not end with the man vs. the man. In addition to other players, you have to worry about the blue fatal force field, which is slowly shrinking. You must avoid this force field at all costs to avoid death. As already mentioned, the game allows you to play solo - that is, if you are sure that you can survive the whole game without the help of anyone. But if you feel camaraderie – or don't want to suffer alone – you can mate with three other players. If you're all lucky, four of you could be winners. Survival Squad uses a typical control system. You will have a directional pad that you can use to control the movement of your character. There are also buttons to shoot, duck, get down, jump, and aim. The game also allows you to interact with objects such as weapons and boxes, by clicking on the menu that appears when you get close to them. Lacking originality, Survival Squad doesn't stand out for its originality. In fact, it is strongly influenced by PlayersUnknown Battlegrounds (PUBG) that it feels like it is the same game. From parachute to a shrinking island to collecting weapons and killing each other, its gameplay is nothing new. In addition, there are other games, such as Free Fire and Knives Out, that use the same gameplay. What separates this game from PUBG, however, is the fact that you can join forces with three other players and aim to win as a couple or group. With the latter, you just have to rely on yourself to survive. The connection actually increases your chances of survival. Nothing new to offerSurvival Squad is a good online action game. It comes with a brief gameplay and a very fun experience that meets the expectations of the players. It is also as fun to play solo as in pairs or four teams. However, there is really nothing new in the game. Everything was done by games of the same genre. Despite having a different title, it will still feel like you are playing your old battle royale games. Drive carefully around the city spectacular races on your Android Drive at the highest speed streets around the world Angry Birds characters star in the racing game Get on a motorcycle and whizz at maximum speed through the operation of the most realistic simulation on the Android terminal Spectacular GTA-style 'sandbox' Journey your way through the zombie apocalypse. Fire your weapons and kill all the zombies in your way. Avoid other cars and obstacles and get as far as you can. Zombie Squad allows you to choose a car and upgrade it. Customize your car by changing your weapon or armor. Also, you can buy new car models in the store. Kill all the zombies in your way, collect as many coins as you can, and upgrade your ride in this awesome Android game! Android!
